Not illustrated. 1865 Excerpt: . . . occur to the mind of the practical laryngoscopist which I shall not here allude to. My addition consists of a simple square piece of very good plate glass mirror, set in brass, like the ordinary concave mirror. A second split tube is soldered on close to the tube which exists on all Weiss's frontal bands, and a brass rod, the ends of which are bent in opposite directions, at an angle of 45. The mode of using this glass is as follows: The laryngoscope is fixed, as usual, before either the left or right eye. The brass rod is fixed in the tube, beside that which holds the rod supporting the reflector; and my square glass is fixed on the other end, as is very well shown in the engraving. As the angles of incidence and reflection are equal, the mirror may be turned to such an angle, that the second examiner may be placed at such a distance from both the patient and operator, that his presence cannot disturb the steadiness of either. The view the second examiner has of the larynx in the square mirror is not inverted, being twice reflected. The right vocal cord of the examinee is to the right-hand side of the examiner number two. The glass employed in the manufacture must be as perfect and parallel as possible, so that the loss of light may be a minimum. In conclusion, I may add that the additional weight of the square...
