

The Rules of Modern Policing: "Life on Mars"

By Hunt, Gene

Transworld Publishers Ltd. Hardback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, The Rules of Modern Policing: "Life on Mars", Hunt, Gene, 'Don't move! You're surrounded by armed bastards!' Viewers of "Life on Mars" could be forgiven for thinking that the police force of the 1970s lived by the maxim 'The rules are: there are no rules', yet it turns out that this was not the case. A fascinating historical document has now emerged which shows that there were indeed rules and in 1973 they were recorded on paper by none other than DCI Gene Hunt himself. Divided into ten sections, "The Rules of Modern Policing - 1973 Edition" covers everything from interrogating suspects and undercover operations to driving and dress code. Several of the rules are illustrated with diagrams, and photographs of DCI Hunt himself illustrating the more physical parts of the job: how to hit suspects so you don't leave a mark; how to signal the importance of your arrival by crashing into inanimate objects (cardboard boxes are a perfect example here - lots of noise; no damage to your motor); how to roll over the bonnet of your cortina without making a dick of yourself. Completing the book is an...

READ ONLINE
[7.18 MB]

Reviews

This book is fantastic. This is certainly for all those who statte there had not been a really worth reading. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

-- Prof. Dale Fahey MD

Extremely helpful to all of category of men and women. it had been writtern extremely completely and helpful. You are going to like the way the blogger compose this publication.

-- Johathan Haag